

Peace Trails through London

Discover some of the people and visit some of the places associated with national and international peacemaking.

Statues of famous people like Gandhi, and memorials to unknown conscientious objectors... medieval heroes like the Burghers of Calais, and more recent ones like Edith Cavell... inventors, journalists, nurses, politicians, admirals, campaigners for women's rights and against slavery... They're all on the London Peace Trail. Peacemaking is everybody's history.

The trail is for individuals, families, schools, groups of visitors, students, tourists and Londoners, who like to see the sights but also to get an original perspective on some hidden history of London.
